HISTORY

In the fall of 1946, the doors of Hendersonville High School opened to admit 49 little freshmen. This is a record of their joys, triumphs, sorrows and disappointments.

To launch our class, we elected Mr. Webb to be our guide and counselor. The class officers were as follows: Bobby Davis, President; Sarah Palmer, Vice-President; Sarah Ann Ketrings, Secretary and Treasurer; Catherine Mundy, Reporter; Kate Hunter and Martha Alice Veach, Cheerleaders. We had our trials but only the joys are remembered. One of our remembered joys was a wiener roast at Mr. Webb's farm.

We started our second year confident of success and with most of our original number. This year we gained a new member from East Junior High. We chose Mr. Webb to stay with us as guide. The election returns showed Robert Kirkpatrick, President; Catherine Mundy, Vice-President; Sarah Ann Ketrings, Secretary and Treasurer; Eloise Johnson, Reporter; and to cheer our boys on to victory, Jearl Ann Durham and Peggy Covington were selected as Cheerleaders.

On starting our Junior year we really got ahead financially. We again chose Mr. Webb to be our sponsor and to help with the added business, Mrs. Mack Bingham was elected co-sponsor. This year we needed a competent and experienced staff so we elected Robert Kirkpatrick, President; Courtney Hewgley, Vice-President; Sarah Ann Ketrings, Secretary and Treasurer; Kate Hunter, Reporter; and with a number of our boys making the squad, we chose Ruth Garrett and Sarah Ann Ketrings to voice our hopes on the gridiron. One of the great triumphs of the year was the Junior Play, DAMSELS IN DISTRESS. The proceeds of this went for a gala Hawaiian style Junior-Senior Reception. It was given in the new cafeteria which took on a festive look with flowers and gaily colored paper leis to wear around our necks. Also, a long remembered trip came this year as we boarded a bus and journeyed to the historic home of Andrew Jackson. After this we visited the State Prison, this made us feel lucky indeed to be free and on the road to happiness. The perfect day ended by seeing the stage play, MACBETH, at the Community Playhouse. Everyone, including Mrs. Johnson, who had taught us the drama, and Mrs. Bingham, our sponsor, had a wonderful day.

Our last year in high school we took the responsibility of editing the COMMANDO COMET and helping with the annual. True to the fine policy of not changing guides in the middle of the trip we kept our Junior sponsors. We elected Clem Reese, President; Eloise Johnson, Vice-President; Sue Petty, Secretary; Valerie Cage, Treasurer; Peggy Covington, Reporter. We elected Sue Petty as Cheerleader. Kate Hunter was elected Editor of the annual and paper.

Our class night, play and graduation are now at hand so we look backward with pride and say "We have learned to do some things better," we look forward with anticipation to applying the knowledge we have attained. We now say farewell to fellow students with the admonition that "He who strives succeeds." This is to thank the faculty for their aid, advice and sincere words that have helped us in our struggle.

EMMA JEAN STAFFORD.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

P R O P H E C Y

As I looked into the crystal, the road to the future led forward for twenty years and I saw myself walking down it to the year 1970, where it crooked and forked into all directions.

The first turn led to Washington, D. C., where I watched the inauguration of the youngest president ever to enter office. Robert Kirkpatrick took the oath of office and the first lady, the former Sarah Ann Ketrington, watched with pride.

While in Washington, I saw Senator Emma Jean Stafford addressing a joint session of Congress. She talked slowly so that Mazelle Hall, a clerk in the House of Representatives could write it all down.

The next fork in the road led to Hendersonville, where I saw a parade coming down the street. The band was led by Alvin Sutton. The celebration was in honor of the opening of a newspaper, The Hendersonville Times, edited by Clyde Garrett.

As I ventured on down the road, I noticed that a new livestock market was being built, at the edge of town. Dudley Harris was planning to make this market the best one in the South.

Just beyond the livestock market, I noticed a new General Shoe Plant under construction. The foreman in charge of the work was James Nichols. The land had been bought from a farmer, James McConnell.

I now visited the school and saw Joyce Williams coach a championship team. These girls hadn't lost a game the entire season.

As the gym faded into the mist, the images of two persons formed in the crystal ball, and I saw Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Hewgley entering the office of the Hendersonville Motor Co., which was owned by Courtney. Mrs. Hewgley was the former Eloise Johnson.

Turning another curve in the road to the future, I found myself in front of a hospital. The shingle over the door informed me that Dr. Clem Reese was chief of staff and Catherine Mundy was Superintendent of Nurses.

The crystal next led me to a busy street in Memphis. On the window of a nearby office was the name of the little man who had taken Crump's place, Shelley Edwards.

In another part of Memphis, I saw a theater which was showing a movie starring Nola Allen and featuring the work of the famous art director, Noah Allen. The manager of this theater was Leland Hewgley.

Again the crystal cleared and I found myself in New York City, where I saw Mrs. Bob Kelley talking to a bookkeeper, Frances Draper. The topic of conversation was about the days when Mrs. Kelley was Delores Curtis.

As I walked past Rockefeller Center, I saw Valerie Cage, a famous physicist, talking to Sue Petty, a reporter for the New York Times.

In a downtown bookstore I saw a book listed as the best seller written by Kate Hunter, who is now Mrs. Fentress McGee.

The scene again moved to Chicago, where I found Ruth Garrett was an Airline Stewardess for American Airlines.

I now walked into the office of the Universal Cosmetic Company of Chicago and found that Peggy Covington was the creator of the cosmetics sold by the company and Jeanette Mahon was chief bookkeeper.

At a downtown theater I saw the name of Jearl Ann Durham, famous concert pianist, who was to give a concert that night. Tommie Wingo was managing the concert tour.

As my own image appeared in the crystal a gypsy came through a concealed passageway and told me that I was to become the writer of utterly fantastic fiction.

"Dear Buddy"
Remember our good times to gether. May we have many more.
Especially on. Dinkham's bus - and going to your games - Be seeing you next year! Best of luck to you with your girl friends HA.
Love
Jane Allen

Dear Buddy
I think you're a swell guy. If possible always stay that way.
Best of luck forever
to a very swell guy.
Love,
"Eva" Davis

Buddy you are a sweet little old boy, always remember the good time we had on the bus. Looking forward to see you with you.
Lots of luck to you.
How I'll love C.

Best of luck and happiness
in the future years.
